ARMIES EXHAUSTED

Soldiers Have Fought so Long That They Must Rest

London, Oct. 28.-The limit of human endurance has been reached in the battle in west Flanders, and the fighting, which stackened yesterday, came to an almost complete stop to day. There may have been some infantry attacks and these may continue, but dispatches from points the artillery firing has ceased. Second Shipment of Clothing from

The ladies of the three villages have shipped to Miss Frances Park, in England, this week, the following

From the Methodist church, 7 prs of pajamas and 1 nightingale. From the Congregational church, 18 prs. of pajamas, 1 pr. of bed socks From the Episcopal church, 10 prs of pajamas and 3 nightingales.

From Old Bennington, 21 comfortbags, 6 flannel night dresses, 21 flannel shirts, 4 mufflers, 4 shawls, 1 childs shirt, 6 prs mittens, 2 prs. children's stockings, 28 prs. men's socks, 1 piece cheese cloth. From North Bennington, 19 children's flannel shirts or waists, 2 sleeping hoods, 10 prs. wristlets.

Miss Park sends the things on to her mother, Mrs. Chauncey Depew 2d, as they are needed. The firing line is not within five miles of the hospital, and the noise of the engagement is very loud all day. Many wounded come in with no socks and few overcoats are seen, blankets or newspapers (worn under the uniform) are common substitutes. The North Bennington ladies are to sew at two o'clock Tuesday afternoons all winter, at Mrs. J. G. McCullough's house; over from the other villages to help

Forced to Retire Before Attacks Prinzip, Actual Slayer, Gets Off of Fresh Russian Troops

Says Germans and Austrians Have Fallen Back in Disorder, Losing Cannon and Prisoners

Berlin, Oct. 28, Via Amsterdam and London,-The German and Austrian troops in Poland, according to an official announcement issued here today, have been forced to withdraw before fresh Russian forces advancing from Ivangorod, Warsaw and Novo Georgievsk after having repulsed all former Russian attacks.

The official statement continues: At first the Russians did not follow and the withdrawal of our troops took place without difficulty. The reserve troops will change their formation according to the situation.

Petrograd, Oct. 28-The following official communication was issued to day from General Headquarters: In the battle which has been in progress for four days south of the Pil iza River in the forests on the line extending from the Bialogura, (Bialobrzegi) to Glovacher, Policzna, and Janowice our troops have inflicted up on the Austro German forces a severe defeat. Between the Piliza and Glovacher the heroic efforts of our troops definitely broke down on Oct 26 the resistance of the Twentieth Corps and the reserve guard corps of the Germans. On the centre, after fighting of an extremely desperate character, we ucceeded in establishing a firm foothold on the border of a forest in the egion of the villages of Adamoff. Sev rinoff, and Marianoff. On the left wing we captured by as sault a defensive position established at Policzna and enveloped a portion of the Austrian troops near Berdzeje On the night of Oct. 27 the enemy's corps fell back in disorder toward the line between Edlinsk Radom, and Izh We captured both cannons and pris

MOTHS A feature in four parts by the Thanhouser Co., after the book by Ouida.

Lady Dolly Venderdecken was a young widow who had lived in Paris for many years, enjoying the freedom from the conventional English life under which she had been brought up. Her only child, a daughter, was brought up by her dead husband's mother, the Duchess of Mull.

The gay little butterny was forcibiy reminded of the fact that she was the mother of a grown daughter when a beautiful young girl arrived at the hotel. Vere, for that was the girl's name, had expected an affectionate welcome from her parent, but she was bitterly disappointed Lady Dolly resented the girl's very presence, which seemed to add years to her own age, and determined to marry. her off at once.

Correze, a celebrated singer, fell in love with Vere and the latter returned his affection. But Prince Sergius Zouroff, a wealthy but notorious Russian, also wished to marry her, and worldly Lady Dolly determined that he would wed her daughter. She made Vere believe that Zouroff had her in his power, and the girl, believing it the only way to save her mother, consented to marry Zouroff, although she hated the man as strongly as she cared for Correze.

After the marriage, Zouroff soon neglected his wife for the Duchess de Sonnaz, a dashing French woman. Finally Ve e was compelled to forbid the Duchess to enter her home, and Zouroff, incensed at his wite s conduct, sent her to his castle in Poland. He hoped the surroundings there would break her spirit and make her submit to his will, but she remained unyield-

Correze, through all these years remained faithful to the woman he loved, and when Zouroff publicly used his wife's name insuitingly, the chivalrous tenor challenged him to a duel. The tenor was shot through the throat, and although his life was spared he could nover sing again. Vere heard the news in Poland and hastened to his side, nursing him through his illness. Zou off, enraged at his wife's conduct, secured a divorce and married the Duchess de Sonnaz, loaving Vere free to wed the man who had been willing to give up his
